Excerpt from Juvenile Instructor, Vol. 40: February 15, 1905 The first evening of Rob s possession of the dog they became acquainted, and from then on most amiable relations were established. And it was not long before we all recognized the dog s good temper, and his tenderness and patience with Children. Though he grew so in our respect, still his real nature, as it gradually developed, was a continual surprise to us, we did not dream that a dog could have such far reaching sympathies as his after life showed. He was named Hunter after his Character as a searcher for lost ones be came known. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
